

Langley-Adams Library Library of Things Policy

Langley-Adams Library's "Library of Things" consists of materials that do not fall within the usual realm of the Library's checkouts. This includes hotspots, tabletop games, musical instruments, and more.

The items in the Library of Things get checked out for up to two weeks. They must be checked out at Langley-Adams Library and returned to Langley-Adams Library's circulation desk. Library of Things items may only be checked out by patrons 18 years old and over. These patrons must have a library card in good standing. Library of Things items may not be renewed.

There are no fines for Library of Things items; however, if a patron loses the item, they will be billed for the item. The patron is responsible for the item while it is in their care. Each item costs a different amount, and all of the replacement costs are recorded in the Library catalog.

Patrons must sign a separate Hotspot Borrowing Agreement to check out a hotspot. All of the above rules apply, in addition to any rule listed in the Hotspot Borrowing Agreement.

Acceptance of Library of Things donations is at the discretion of the Library Director in conjunction with the Board of Trustees. The Library Director and Board of Trustees reserve the right to not accept the donation based on the current needs of the library or the condition of the item.
